

Suffolk University Law School Class Day Exercises Held

The 32d annual Class Day exercises of Suffolk University Law School were held last night in the Suffolk University auditorium, Temple st. Three graduates who are receiving their degree of bachelor of laws with highest honors took the leading parts in the program. Lawrence J. Lombard, Boston, gave the valedictory; Clarence P.

Ford, East Boston, gave the salutatory address, and Frederick Fishman, Roxbury, read the class will. Harold R. Greenlee will also graduate with highest honors.

Walter X. Pierce presided. The class history was given by Daniel D. Donnelly of South Boston, and William X. Wall, Lawrence, dipped into the future with a prophecy for every graduate in the class of 220.

Timothy J. McInerney, Boston, was the class orator and Joseph J. Cummings, East Boston, class poet. James A. Dunphy, Revere, presented the class gift, a number of volumes for the university library.

Richard G. Sullivan of Roslindale and James P. Reardon of Newburyport were the marshals. Guy Principato directed the orchestral numbers and vocal selections were rendered by Elizabeth Bernier, C. L. A. '44, who sang Schubert's "Serenade," and Francis J. Sefton, who sang "I Love Life," by Manna Zucca.

The Class Day committee was Thomas H. Tighe, Westwood, chairman; James Dunphy, Revere; Robert J. Cotter, Brockton; Morris Crosky, Lynn; Enrico Cappucci, East Boston; Walter Horlick, Brighton; James Russo, Revere; George Devoe, Cambridge; William A.

Hogan, Dorchester; Ara H. Tashjian, Norfolk; Myer Brilliant, Chelsea; John McVey, Dorchester; Clarence Ford, East Boston, and Joseph Cummings, East Boston.

The Commencement exercises will take place this evening.

Sergeants Gulp and Suffer

CAMP BOWIE, Tex. (UP)—The sergeant's were enjoying their quids of tobacco when the general walked in. They gulped hurriedly. Two hours later the company had a pair of sick sergeants on its hands.
