

Largest Detachment of WAACS Storms Fort Devens Today

The largest detachment of WAACS—288 from New England including 120 Greater Boston women—left this morning for Fort Devens and the recently opened southern training center of the WAACS at Daytona Beach, Fla. They will have a short stay at Fort Devens.

All of the recruits are in the service as auxiliaries and following four weeks' training, many will be sent to school for specialized work. They are eligible to compete for officer candidate school when they have completed their required training.
